

The RISE Institute

Institute for Reconstitution and International Security through Education

Please help The RISE Institute support programs that serve children who are affected by violent conflicts or severe poverty.

Your generous donation will help improve and expand programs for education, early childhood development, parenting education, and planning for action.

You will help RISE to train more people serving children and families during and after conflicts, and to share knowledge about lessons learned, educational materials, and program evaluations.

We greatly appreciate gifts of any size.
